60.（6分）I have a younger brother. To me, he is a fourteen－year－old kid named Joe, with blond hair and blue eyes. To others, he is different. Where I see a kid who just needs a lot more attention, others see a mentally disabled boy, a kid who cannot walk or talk or think for himself. I see someone who just makes daily routine a bit less routine. Others see an annoyance, a bother.

This is not to say that I have never felt resentful（怨恨的） toward Joe. He is my brother, and with that comes responsibility. "Gina, could you stay in tonight and watch your brother?""Gina, do me a favor and feed him dinner and change his diaper（尿布） later, please?""Could you come home right after school today and get Joe off the bus?"

These are phrases that I have heard since I was twelve. And sure, they have made me resent my brother to a certain extent. I would think：that's not fair!Everyone else can stay after and be a member of this club, or get extra help from that teacher. Or, all my friends are going out tonight, why can't I? And, how come I have to feed him? He is not my son!

However, the small amount of resentment I feel toward my brother is erased a thousand times over by what I have learned from him. Besides making me responsible from a young age, and helping me be more accepting of all kinds of people, he has taught me to be thankful for what I have.

I know that there are moment in my life that I should cherish and that Joe will never experience. He will never laugh so hard that he cries. He will never feel the glory of a straight－A report card. He will never comfort a best friend crying on his shoulder. And he will never know how much his family love him.

Because he will never know, it is up to me to know, every second, how lucky I am. It is up to me to realize that life should be lived to its fullest, and that you should always, always be grateful that God, or whoever are the powers that be, gave you the ability to live your life the way you were meant to live it.

60. We know from the first paragraph that Gina's brother_____.

A. causes trouble to neighbors

B. pays more attention to others

C. lives with mental disability

D. considers daily routine a bother

61. If Mother asks Gina to look after her brother now, what will she probably answer? _____

A. I'm afraid not. B. No problem! C. It depends. D. It's not fair!

62. The passage intends to tell us that we should_____.

A. value the glory of success

B. appreciate what life gives us

C. comfort unfortunate people

D. treasure meaningful moments.

63.（8分）Even as Google plans to test its fleet（车队）of self-driving cars on public roads this summer, its business model remains a bit of a mystery. By 2025, as many as 250, 000self-driving vehicles could be sold each year globally, according to a study by an industry research firm.

"Vehicles that can take anyone from A to B at the push of a button could transform mobility for millions of people, "said Chris Urmson, director of Google's self-driving car project. For now, Google has no plans to sell any of its self-driving cars. They are strictly for research. But they will hit public roads this summer near Google's headquarters in Mountain View, California. Previous testing has taken place only on closed courses.

The cars are built to operate without a steering wheel, accelerator（油门）or brake pedal. "Our software and sensors do all the work, "Urmson said. "The vehicles will be very basic-we want to learn from them and adapt them as quickly as possible-but they will take you where you want to go at the push of a button. "The prototype（雏形）are the first of a 100-car fleet the tech giant is building.

In the long run, Urmson sees a future of safer roads-the majority of auto accidents are caused by human error - and fewer traffic jams. Robotic cars could also shuttle people who can't drive because of age or illness.

Google has said that self - driving cars could launch new business models in which people buy the use of vehicles they don't own. The company has already tested other types of self - driving cars on public streets, including modified Lexus sport - utility vehicles, under a special permit program by the California Department of Motor Vehicles that requires a human driver at the controls.

The state has issued six other companies permits to operate such cars, including Delphi, Mercedes - Benz, Volkswagen, Tesla, Bosch and Nissan. The vehicles that will be tested on open roads this summer will have removable steering wheels, accelerators and brake pedals to allow"safety drivers"to take control if needed.

Google says the cars are safe. The vehicles have sensors that"can detect objects out to a distance of more than two football fields in all directions, which is especially helpful on busy streets with lots of intersections, "Urmson said. "We're looking forward to learning how the community understands and interacts with the vehicles, and to uncovering challenges that are unique to a fully self - driving vehicle, "Urmson said.

63. The passage informs us that self - driving cars_____.

A. will probably decrease traffic jams

B. have already passed necessary tests

C. have been purchased by some companies

D. will be able to communicate with drivers

64. According to Chris Urmson, _____.

A. software and sensors are vital for self - driving cars

B. self - driving cars can give driving orders to humans

C. self - driving cars are specially designed for the elderly

D. ordinary vehicles will be replaced by self - driving cars

65. The underlined word"intersections"in the last paragraph probably means_____.

A. accidents B. buildings C. crossings D. vehicles

66. What is the best title for this passage? _____

A. Self - driving Car Avoids Human Errors

B. Self - driving Car Meets New Challenges

C. Google's Self - driving Car Enjoys Global Popularity

D. Google's Self - driving Car Graduates to City Streets.

67.（8分）It's rare that you see the words"shyness"and"leader"in the same sentence. After all, the common viewpoint is that those outgoing and sociable guys make great public speakers and excellent networkers and that those shy people are not. A survey conducted by USA Today referred to 65percent of executives who believed shyness to be a barrier to leadership. Interestingly, the same article stresses that roughly 40percent of leaders actually are quite shy - they're just better at adapting themselves to situational demands. Bill Gates, Warren Buffet and Charles Schwab are just a few"innies".

Unlike their outgoing counterparts who are more sensitive to rewards and risk - taking, shy people take a cautious approach to chance. Rather than the flashy chit - chat that defines social gathering, shy people listen attentively to what others say and absorb it before they speak. They're not thinking about what to say while the other person is still talking, but rather listening so they can learn what to say. Along the same lines, shy people share a common love of learning. They are intrinsically（内在地） motivated and therefore seek content regardless of achieving an outside standard.

Being shy can also bring other benefits. Remember being in school and hearing the same kids contribute, until shy little Johnny, who almost never said a word, cut in? Then what happened? Everyone turned around to look with great respect at little Johnny actually talking. This is how shy people made good use of their power of presence: they"own"the moment by speaking calmly and purposefully, which translate to a positive image.

Shyness is often related to modesty. Not to say that limelight - seekers aren't modest, but shy people tend to have an accurate sense of their abilities and achievements. As a result, they are able to acknowledge mistakes, imperfections, knowledge gaps and limitations.

Since shy people have a lower sensitivity to outside rewards than outgoing ones, they're more comfortable working with little information and sticking to their inner desires. Shy people are also more likely to insist on finding solutions that aren't primarily apparent. Don't believe me? Maybe you'll believe Albert Einstein, who once said, "It's not that I'm so smart, it's that I stay with problems longer. "Obviously, finding certainty where uncertainty is typically popular is a huge plus for any successful person.

The myth that shy people are less effective leaders than their outgoing fellows is just a misunderstanding. Make wise use of your personality strengths to lead your business no matter what side of the range you fall on.

67. We can learn from Paragraph 2that_____.

A. shy people are sensitive to rewards

B. shy people care more about content

C. outgoing people are more careful about chances

D. outgoing people consider what to learn while listening

68. The example of Johnny shows_____.

A. shy people are likely to be modest

B. hardworking students speak little in public

C. some students keep silent on purpose at school

D. shy people may have an advantage in discussion

69. We can learn from the underlined sentence in Paragraph 5that_____.

A. success results from devotion

B. shyness contributes to popularity

C. outside reward leads to insistence

D. uncertainty counts more than certainty

70. The author supports his ideas mainly by_____.

A. giving definitions and presenting research results

B. explaining problems and providing solutions

C. quoting authorities and making evaluations

D. making contrasts and gibing examples.

第二节(共 1 小题;每小题 10 分,共 10 分)根据短文内容,从短文后的七个选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两个为多余选项。

71.（10 分）Skin - to - skin Effort Aims to Cut Newborn Deaths

A social media campaign has been launched in China to cut down the number of newborns babies who die in the first 24hours of life. The campaign, called First Embrace（拥抱), promotes skin - to - skin contact between mother and baby immediately after birth, a practice proven to keep the baby warm and help it to fight infections.

There are 16million babies born in China each year, and approximately 150, 000of them die before they reach one month of age.（71）_____ Zhang Shuyi, a researcher at the Capital Institute of Pediatrics in Beijing, said there was strong evidence for the First Embrace approach.

"When babies are cold, they are more likely to catch infections or have difficulty breathing, "she said, "（72）_____ It provides direct protection against infection, promotes bonding between the parent and child and supports breast - feeding. "Health workers who shifted from the normal practice of separation to skin - to - skin contact have observed that babies are more pink, calm and comfortable.

The WHO has developed the First Embrace approach to help reduce newborn deaths across the Western Pacific region, including China. Bernhard Schwartlander, the WHO Representative in China, said, "As many as two - thirds of newborn deaths could be prevented using simple, low - cost methods, including the First Embrace. "

(73) _____ The WHO will be posting information about the campaign, and hosting online question - and - answer sessions with Chinese and international experts. The public can participate by following the WHO on Weibo and joining the conversation. Schwartlander said, "We are targeting new parents, pregnant women and couples thinking about having a baby. (74) _____"

Just last month, a new research shows that child and mother health outcomes in Shanghai are equal to those in the USA and Canada. (75) _____ Hopefully, the messages conveyed by the new campaign could help to bridge that gap.

A. The campaign has now been launched via Weibo.

B. Of that number, half die in the first 24hours of life.

C. Skin - to - skin contact keeps a baby warm by transferring heat.

D. Those parents who lost their newborn babies can get supports on the platform.

E. In other parts of China, however, the statistics are like those of poor countries.

F. It indicates that related methods for health care and birth quality should be improved.

G. We also aim to involve health professionals in the importance of early essential newborn care.

16.【解答】University

17.【解答】James

18.【解答】August

19.【解答】London

20.【解答】33038450

第二部分：知识运用（共两节，45 分）第一节单项填空（共 15 小题；每小题 1 分，共 15 分）从每题所给的 A、B、C、D 四个选项中，选出可以填入空白处的最佳选项，并在答题卡上将该项涂黑。

21.【解答】答案：B 本题考查现在分词的用法．题干中，后面的句子与前面用逗号分隔，没有连词，要用非谓语动词；sit 与主语 the man 是主动关系，要用现在分词作伴随状语；不定式表示未发生的动作，不符合题意．故选 B.

22.【解答】答案：B 题干所给的句子中，前半部分 amazed us greatly 是谓语结构；后面接了 was that 也是谓语结构，说明前面的部分是充当了 was 的主语，是一个主语从句；主语从句中 amazed 缺少主语，要用连接代词．故选 B.

23.【解答】答案："this"这个；"it"特指，代替前面提到的那个特定的事物；"one"是泛指，指代前面提到的同类人或物(可数名词)中的一个；"that"是特指，代替前面提到的不可数名词或单数可数名词，后面一般有后置定语．根据句意，人们期望上海迪斯尼公园提供的服务比东京的"服务"更好．特指东京迪斯尼的服务，用 that，故选 D.

24.【解答】答案：B 本题考查一般现在时态的用法．一般现在时态用来表达：经常性习惯性动作；客观事实；不变是真理等．题干表示的是客观常识，故选 B.

25.【解答】答案：C.

wonder 表示疑问，"不知道，想知道"，后面的宾语从句应该是表示疑问的内容，whether 表示是否，不作成分，符合语境，而 when 和 where 表示时间和地点，that 不能引导宾语从句作 wonder 的宾语；故选 C.

26.【解答】答案：D.

The Winter Olympics 和 hold 之间为逻辑上的动宾关系，所以可排除表示主动关系的 B 和 C；根据时间状语 in 2022 可知，是表示将来召开的冬奥会，故用 to be held 表将来，被动；故选 D．bring in 引进，带来．

27.【解答】答案 C．由 last night 可知是与过去的假设，用情态动词+have done 表示对过去的推测．"could have done"表示过去可能做了某事或者过去本来能够做某事而没做；"should have done"表示过去本应该做某事而没做．根据句意，昨晚我本应该给手机充电的（而事实上没有），现在电池快没电了．故选 C.

28.【解答】答案 A.根据句意，应该是"被困在"电梯里，故用过去分词表示被动."Ving"表示主动或正在进行；"having done"表示从句的动作发生在主句之前；"to be done"表示将来或者目的．故选 A.

29.【解答】答案 C. 分析句子结构可知，主句为"Sometimes we have to face embarrassing moments"，空格处到句末作名词"moments"的后置定语，先行词为"moments 指代时间"，定语从句中不缺少主、宾、表等主要成分，缺少时间状语，因此应该用关系副词 when，故选 C.

30.【解答】答案：C 根据语境，then 是指"this Sunday morning"，是将来时间，考试容易混淆一般将来时态和将来进行时态，将来进行时表示将来某时正在进行的动作，一般将来时表示将来某时将要发生的动作，同时可以表示委婉语气. 根据上下文，说话的人是委婉拒绝前面的建议，并表示那个时候讲会正在做某事，所以本题用将来进行时态.

31.【解答】答案：A.
